STUDENTS NATURALLY DRAWN TO OUTDOOR LEARNING

When you're a student, it's hard to beat getting outside for recess.

Students at Red Rocks Elementary can now get outside for class.

On Thursday, Sept. 23 at 5:30 p.m. the school located at 17199 State Highway #74, Morrison, will dedicate the new outdoor classroom where students can study in a natural setting surrounded by native plants and majestic Colorado views. The facility boasts natural red rock amphitheater-style seating, nature trails and learning stations.

The project, which began in the 2007-08 school year, was built with Jefferson County Conservation Funds (lottery dollars) totaling $86,000.

Join staff, students, parents and community members to thank all of the school's sponsors and supporters who made the classroom a reality.
