Jefferson County Open School celebrates with Phase One Dedication Ceremony

Jeffco Public Schools' longest serving option school, Jefferson County Open School, will be celebrating a Phase One dedication ceremony at 5 p.m., Tuesday, October 5, 2010. The dedication, open to the public, will take place at 7655 West 10th Ave., in Lakewood. The Jefferson County Open School has provided an alternative education to students for the past 40 years.

The Phase One construction project replaced approximately 45,000 square feet which included a new commons and kitchen, library, administration, classrooms, kindergarten, art and music along with support spaces. The new areas will be more energy efficient.

This project is made possible through the support of Jefferson County taxpayers and is being funded from the passage of the bond issue on November 3, 2004.
